About Mudflows: When volcanic ash piles up thickly on mountain slopes or alongside rivers and streams, it can easily be picked up by rainfall and become mudflows. Caution is urged particularly in areas where ash piles up over 10cm thick as mudflows may occur frequently.

Evacuation Zone 3.
Lava flows may reach this area within one day of eruptions.

*When Volcanic Advisories have been issued, this area must prepare to be evacuated. Elderly and disabled persons must evacuate in advance.
*When a Volcanic Alert has been issued, immediate evacuation is recommended.

The affected area may differ depending on location and scale of the eruption. Pay attention to the information provided by local authorities.
